Terrible Indictment.

On being told of the verdict in the Howard case Youtsey is said to have said: "The jury gave him just what he deserved; and I am glad of it." This means that Youtsey knows that Howard is guilty and the prosecution has known all the time what it was about, and in time will turn the light of the noon day sun on the horrible conspiracy and force the Governor of Indiana to give up his pet. Speaking in a memorial meeting held in Covington on the anniversary of the death of Governor Goebel, ex-Congressman Leas of Ohio, after reviewing the assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, said: "In neither case was there back of the assassination an organization nor a party, but when Governor Goebel was assassinated he was the victim of a body of conspirators unequalled in depravity in American history. The Republican party of Indiana welcomes these criminals and fugitives from justice and harbors them within their midst. A man who harbors a horse thief, knowing him to be indicted in an adjoining state, secreting him and refusing to deliver him up to the proper officials, is a participant crime after the fact in every civilized court of the world. A political party that as an individual is guilty of being a participant crime after the fact in harboring and secreting Taylor and Finley in the state of Indiana. What great Republican newspaper of the United States has had the moral courage to condemn the conduct of the Republican executive of Indiana? What Republican among the trustocracy of the country, what woman of the social four hundred of the country has seen fit to condemn with even so much as a word the law conspiracy to shield Taylor and Finley from the punishment which fugitives from justice should receive under the constitution of the United States, and which the executive of the state of Indiana has registered an oath in heaven to support? This is a terrible indictment, but every word is true and we intend to keep it in the minds of the people "till they forget."—Harrisburg Democrat.

Idea for the Kitchen.

Use a pancake lifter to place cookies on the tin and to remove them when they are baked.
Cold boiled potatoes are more appetizing if a little flour is sprinkled over them while frying.
It saves strength in beating bread to use a spoon with a perforated bowl. Cost, ten cents.
Put worn-out pie tins in the sink cupboard and use them to set crockery kettles in.
Rub a little butter on the fingers and on the knife when seeding raisins, to avoid the stickiness.
If there is not butter enough to fill the pan put cold water in the empty space before setting the pan in the oven.
Crockery ornamented with gilt bands or figures should be washed quickly and drained dry, never wiped, even with a soft cloth.
Rub the inner casing of windows that show up and down hard with a little hard soap; treat bureau drawers in the same way.
To clean a kettle in which onions or other rank vegetables have been cooked, rub with a cloth dipped in hot, strong soda water, then wash in soapy water.
When black spots appear on doughnuts, drop a slice of raw potato into the fat and leave it while the next relay is frying and repeat.—Massachusetts Plaindealer.

The farmer who has to wade through the snow to a stock of ice-covered fodder and chop it to pieces in order to get food for his stock thinks he has a tough time of it, and he does. But it may be that he has a thrifty, up-to-date neighbor who sheds his fodder in good weather, stores it in a barn and then when the sheets and snow of winter come he is saved more than half the trouble of feeding, and doesn't lose any fodder either. The progressive farmer, and the thrifty farmer, on account of his progressive ways, is quick to take advantage of all labor and trouble-saving machines and methods.
If you want stock in the Mutual Oil and Gas Company, send your money to N. M. Tuttle, Columbia, who will issue the stock and forward to you.

STATE NEWS.

Richmond has a plague of smallpox. Thirty persons are afflicted.
At Sherburne, Bath county, Thomas Bailey shot and killed Alex Lemaster, Annie Douglas, a six-year-old colored girl of Maysville, was burned to death.
Miss Little Dunn, of Smithland, fainted and fell in the fire and was fatally burned.
At Madisonville Miss Mary Bradley died from injuries received by falling on the ice.
Mrs. Carol, formerly of Hardin county, killed his wife and then committed suicide in Oklahoma.

Ed Cole, a negro criminal, was fatally shot by Policeman Sullivan at Louisville, while resisting arrest.

Henry Thompson, of Mayfield, was caught by a live wire and severely burned. He will probably die.

Geo. Ruhl, aged sixty-five years, was run down by a street car at Louisville and his life crushed out.

At Paducah Mrs. Henry Turner was held up by footpads at night at point of a revolver and robbed of $175.

The death of Mrs. Mary Bell, of Louisville, made the fourth member of Robt. Bell's family to die within eight days.

In Boyle county, Miss Nannie Pence was shot by W. E. Grubbs for $5,000 for breach of promise, and was awarded $300.

Ben Hardin and Miss Nannie Sims, of Hancock county were married a few days ago. It was the fifth marriage for Hardin and the third for Mrs. Sims.

At Dorton, Pike county, Samuel Mullins, aged 21, fatally shot his aunt, Mrs. Lucy Smallwood, aged 48. He has disappeared.

Geo. Scott, one of the principals in the recent Owens county fight in which six men were wounded, is dead.

In Allen county John Pendergrass and Mrs. Nannie Little engaged in a fight. Pendergrass used stones and Mrs. White used a shotgun, and both are dangerously wounded.

The Court of Appeals affirmed the Bell Circuit Court sentencing Mack Yonts, of Leitcher county, to life imprisonment for complicity in the murder of Mrs. Jennie Hall.

Homer Potter, aged eighteen years was fatally injured in a wreck at Danville, on the Cincinnati Southern Railroad, Sunday morning. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, and died that afternoon.

Two Lawrence county farmers found a box of tobacco floating in Big Sandy river. One of them, Wade Polty, showed some of the tobacco. It burned his mouth and tongue severely and paralyzed one side of his face, leaving him in a serious condition.

The Court of Appeals reversed the Casey court granting a judgment of $15,000 to the administrator of Della Moore, suing the Board of Internal Improvement for Lincoln county. Miss White was killed by driving into a toll gate and wrecking her phaeton.

Mrs. Nick Ring, Jr., of Mason county, had a terrible experience. While on her way across a field to visit a neighbor she fell and broke one of her legs. It was in a secluded spot, and she remained all day in the cold. Her husband found her late in the evening, almost perished from her long exposure.

The residence of Mrs. Annie Coffey, of Hopkinsville, was destroyed by fire. Geo. and Slack Coffey narrowly escaped perishing. Geo. awoke in time to throw his unconscious brother through a window and then jump out just as the room filled with flames and the roof fell in. Mrs. Coffey and her daughter escaped in their night clothes.

While Parker Morton, a well-known citizen of Anderson county, was in a saloon at Lawrenceburg he became involved in a dispute with Robt. Duncan and Duncan, becoming enraged at a remark made by Morton, assaulted him and beat him so severely that his life is despaired of. Mr. Morton was a Federal soldier during the Civil War, and has served several terms as Coroner of the county.

A young man in a railway carriage was making fun of a lady's hat to an elderly gentleman in the seat with him. "Yes," said the elderly gent, "that's my wife, and I told her if she wore that bonnet some fool would make fun of it." The young man was silent the remainder of the journey.

Spicy—From Bryan's paper.

If the isthmian canal game is played according to Panama rules spades will not be trumps.

"Manifest destiny" always manages to show up well in the footings of the expense account.

Let the Nicaragua canal bill be pushed at once. It is not necessary to get the consent of the railroads.

Would the supreme court stand 5 to 4 on the constitutionality of a law increasing the salary of judges?

The bones of starved Irish children are buried under a monument to Great Britain's efforts in behalf of Christian civilization.

In the year 1902 an American military commander suppressed the Declaration of Independence as an "inconvenient document."

If you have not renewed your subscription to The Commoner, do so at once.

President Schwab should be given credit for having the good judgment to risk his salary at Monte Carlo rather than in Wall street.

By using the Panama scheme to offset the Nicaragua plan the opponents of the isthmian canal have fallen back into the last ditch.

If Kruger cannot reach here in time to help us celebrate Jefferson's birthday he might come over and help us celebrate the Fourth of July.

It might do some good to amend the salary bill so that the increase will not apply to judges who vote to suspend the constitution.

Edward VII. should make up his mind to arise on the glorious festival coronation morn and receive another staggering dispatch from South Africa.

"Give me a man!" shrieks the Chicago Inter-Ocean. This appeal indicates that the Inter-Ocean is weary of taking whatever the trusts have a mind to give.

Recipe for making Imperialism: Dissolve a keg of powder in a barrel of blood and throw in a handful of hypocrisy for seasoning. Drink while hot.

Perhaps it would be just as well to test that Danish West Indies brick before paying over the money. The Philippine brick did not stand the acid test.

The "old time republican" who wants to vote his party ticket without feeling the prick of conscience should train his memory to quit when it gets back to 1896.

Governor Taft says the Filipinos are rapidly acquiescing in American control. The dead Filipino makes no objections, and the commission takes silence for consent.

It will please King Edward to know that the men who will represent this republic at his coronation were selected for the purpose of casting reflection on other American citizens.

Will President Roosevelt take Prince Henry over to the treasury department and show him the ragged patches on the republican gold standard law that "saved the national honor?"

Congress is asked to appropriate $500,000 to build a shelter in Manila for American soldiers. What's the matter with the hospitable homes of the loyal and American-loving Filipinos?

Perhaps Mr. What's the name of that fellow who wrote the naval history?—would like to test the popularity of the naval clique by following up the track left across the country by Admiral Schley.

"Can a man with a family be a good Christian on a salary of $3 a week?" is a question causing great discussion in eastern circles. If he is a Christian at all he will have to be a good one on that salary.

Senator Hale uttered a great truth when he said: "If we are to become a great war power, we will have to learn the lesson other nations have learned."

Every nation that stands snarling at another country depends upon compulsory military service.

One can't always tell how things will turn out, and in this country there is no fixed reason why a boy who is born poor should always remain so. When John D. Rockefeller, then "as poor as Job's turkey," joined a Baptist church at Cleveland, Ohio, the old lure loving deacons didn't look very kindly on it. They told the pastor he should make an effort to gather in men of wealth, instead of these poor boys.

They wanted people who could help the church.

A Blundering War.

In the fact that the people of Great Britain now welcome talk of peace with the Boers in a spirit of pronounced approval there is a significance which may be taken as promising an early termination of the war in South Africa by the sheer force of public sentiment.

The truth of the matter is that the English people are justly and tremendously weary of this conflict. A tax burden amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars has been fastened upon them—the direct result of the war. The national prestige has suffered to an almost incalculable extent owing to revelations of Britain's militant incompetency.

Almost the one certainty now is that the next great war in which England must engage with a European Power of her own class will arise from the belief that Great Britain is not to be feared as once she was feared.

Under these conditions, with no glory to England from the prosecution of the war in South Africa, and with all sorts of humiliation among the chances, the English desire for peace is eminently natural. A wise government would see to it that the South African war was speedily terminated, even on the basis of generosity toward the Boers. The bitter price now being paid by the British for Joe Chamberlain's blundering is too galling to be maintained much longer without causing an overthrow of the Ministry responsible for Chamberlain.—St. Louis Republic.

Why he is a Legislator.

Dr. Averdick, member of the legislature from Covington, when asked why it is that a man with a profession and not a politician should want to come to the general assembly, said: "Years ago I was a young, struggling physician. I am still struggling, but not young. At that time my heart was easily touched by the pathetic incidents that I met in my profession, but in no patient did I ever have the same interest as I had in a poor woman of my town. I tried to cure her with my medicine, but I soon found that it would take more than medicine to minister her. I sought the hidden cause of her illness and sorrow, and I learned that an only son was in prison, and that this blow had crushed out her vitality. Without saying anything to her, I went to Frankfort, a youth without influence or reputation to recommend me. I entered the office of Gov. James B. McCreary, now Senator McCreary. I told him my case. He laid before me a long petition for the pardon of the widow's boy and said: 'This petition had as much weight with me, but your struggle of that poor old woman I can not resist. You may take your man home with you.' Imagine my feelings. I simply took his hand and said: Governor, when I can return this kindness, command me.' Several months before this last election, and many years after my meeting with Governor McCreary, I was reminded of my promise to serve him, I had not seen him in the meantime, but he had remembered. I agreed to run for the legislature, and now that I have voted for McCreary, my work is done."

Paid the Damages.

Col. J. P. Chinn's fox hounds had considerable damage to the widow Morris' sheep a few nights ago, but the Colonel paid her twice the amount of damage, and slaughtered the seven young dogs that had cost him over one hundred dollars. Last Summer Mr. Chinn's dogs got into a flock of sheep and killed a number of them. Three days afterwards the sheep-raiser stopped at the Chinn farm house and in a calm mentioned the damage done to his flock, and said he was out looking for the dogs. "Don't go any further; my dogs must have done it for they came home with wool in their teeth," said the Colonel, as he pulled out his roll and paid him a dollar more on the head than he asked. Colonel Chinn favors a stringent dog law.—Saying.
